Gene GeBauer danced twenty years on Broadway and appeared in such hits as "Once Upon A Mattress", "Camelot", "No Strings", "Hello, Dolly!", "Oh! Calcutta", and "Sugar" with such stars as Carol Burnett, Julie Andrews, Carol Channing, Richard Burton, Robert Goulet, and Steve Condos. He danced for many choreographers including Gower Champion, Hanya Holm, and Alvin Ailey. After Broadway Gene joined the dance faculty at the University of Iowa where he started the tap program while working on his B.A. He is currently a private contractor with a number of the major dance studios along the Front Range. His tap classes concentrate on strong technique, drawing on material from classic tap through Broadway tap to rhythm tap.
